Guide/FAQ on Submitting a Notice of Assignment for Policy Assignment

(The information below is for your reference only and should not be taken as legal advice. You are advised to seek independent legal advice on the effect of your assignment.)

1. What is an assignment?

Assignment of a life insurance policy means transfer of rights from one person to another. You can transfer the rights on your life insurance policy to another person/entity for various reasons. This process is referred to as Assignment and is governed under Policies of Assurance Act (Chapter 392). The person who assigns the insurance policy is called the Assignor(s) (policy owner) and the one to whom the policy has been assigned, i.e. the person to whom the policy rights have been transferred is called the Assignee.

Under Singapore law, only assignee can give a valid discharge of all payment obligations to the insurer.

A notice of assignment must be given to the insurer. An assignee who has given notice to the insurer has precedence over all other interests not previously notified to the insurer, even if his date of assignment is later than that of other interests.

Once Prudential has acknowledged receipt of your assignment deed, all future correspondence on your policy will be sent directly to the assignee. Any future dealings with the policy (e.g. surrender of policy) will require only the assignee's consent and any payment on the policy will be paid to the assignee whose receipt will be a valid discharge to Prudential.

If the premiums of the policy are not paid, whether by the assignor(s) or the assignee, the policy may lapse. In the event that the policy is lapsed, the assignee will not be entitled to any benefits under the policy.

2. Who can assign policy?

Only the policy owner of the life insurance policy can assign the policy.

3. How to assign a policy?

a) Assignor(s) and assignee may engage the services of a third party legal professional for the execution of an assignment.
